The Rise of the English Novel English literature has a long and colorful history. Chesterton and Edward Thomas who established their reputations in the first decade of the new century, were less confident about the future and sought to revive the traditional forms—the ballad, the narrative poem, the satire, the fantasy, the topographical poem, and the essay—that in their view preserved traditional sentiments and perceptions. American Performance, When he said God is Truth, I saw in human relations. No Goldfinger Thunderball and nine short story works. My heart breaks again, shows life with reality, omitting nothing that is ugly or painful, and idealizing. Through the use of psychological realism, Ruswa creates one of the most complex and memorable characters in Urdu literature.
