Hi KM, I've been meaning to reword this statement for a while but haven't gotten around to it. And self-discipline is an essential component in that, whether you're talking about some kind of academic achievement, some kind of musical achievement or athletic achievement or whatever it is, some achievement in the realm of business or the arts or science generally comes to people who are very focused and who understand how to order their priorities. Let me introduce you to the Mosaic promise from God. God is perfect, and therefore never changes Mal. There are series of little commands kind of tucked around in the New Testament that address this issue of self-discipline in a number of ways. What kind of adult do you want your child to become?
